FRIDAY, APRIL 23, 1990.

It is now nineteen weeks since the TREAsurer made his financial statement, and the principal source to which he was looking for an increase of revenue appears to be as far as budget speech : "It has, I believe, been the unhappy lot of many of my predecessors since the introduction of responsible govern-ment to propose fresh taxation, but the good fortune of few to carry their propositi That he had no intention of being prophetic in that utterance may easily be credited, but so far he has had to share the unhappy lot of his predecessors, with little of their good fortune. His propositions were ig an additional sum of £358,500 into the exchequer. He has carried the increase upon imported and colonial spirits, and the upon imported wines; but he has se upon beer and tobacco; he has given up his increase upon imported beer and tobacco, and in regard to the stamp duties tobacco, and in regard to the stamp duties the Legislature has come to a deadlock. All the increase yet provided for is the £112,000 additional duty from spirits and wines, and the proper proportion of that has not been realized for the first quarter of the year. leaving a quarter of a million sterling still to be met either by fresh taxation or an equiva-

That leaves a difference equal to lake per head of the mean population to be made good out of the general exchoquer to be made good out of the general exchoquer of the colony. At the same rate the road and bridge expenditure of the United Kingdom sterling per annum. Possibly it does oost it is easy also to quote authorities. There is always somebody in favour of new sterling per annum. Possibly it does oost that the contract of the colony, and thus the expense to be incurred by the town in respect of its dividual benefit being conferred, but, on the cost is made good from that, but if so, the cost is made good from local revenue. With our immense territory and sparse population, there is no help for it, but to supplement local revenues to supplement local revenues and sparse population, there is no help for it, but to supplement local revenues and the contract of the dry-carriage system as would be laid down, even if the dry-carriage system was not prescribed in the dry-carriage system was not prescribed. Therefore, the cost of the dry-carriage system was not prescribed. Therefore, the cost of the dry-carriage system was not prescribed in the dry-carriage system was not prescribed. Therefore, the dry-carriage system was not prescribed in the dry-carriage system, and thus for the purpose of internal communication by other. The question is, what is the conse large votes of public money, but that ought to be in the direction of encouraging instead of superseding local self-help. What states—the light of their own theories, but in that man among us will be bold enough, and suf-ficiently cognizant of our financial necessities, to make a beginning in the establishment of shires, road districts, or some similar local that, in continuing the water system in this organization? Our railways also, another form city with the modification of letting the for the people at low rates and still make an tions on the importance of been done in this colony to an unprecedented extent, whether rightly or wrongly need not now be discussed. Nobody will deny that we have been selling land faster than families settled upon it, and faster than our population has increased. It was neither desirable nor possible for this process to go on; and now that the collapse has come, be met either by fresh taxation or an equivalent retrenchment of expenditure.

As previously stated, the revenue for last quarter was less than one-fourth of Mr.
Warson's estimate for the year by £261,988,
although the latter excludes the new taxation, and the former includes all that has yet been sanctioned by Parliament. On the other lend the expenditure was less by £181.885 is any new system to be tried, or if there of the subject warrants. The importance of such a return. The last point, or the quastion of silting up at the outfall, is one which hand the expenditure was less by £181,885 than one-fourth of the estimate for the year, leaving the surplus revenue expenditure out of account. But both statements require to be qualified by some explanations. For the June quarter the publicans' licenses fall due, and they will swell the revenue of that output by nearly a hundred thousand for variety was an almost exhaust to say how.

of internal communication which is left to private enterprise elsewhere, entail at present a harbour as hitherto, we are on the right track. heavy loss upon the public exchequer. For The extracts supplied by Mr. Horsuax Hurr, heavy loss upon the public exchequer. For the extracts supplied by Mr. Honnout Hung, the current year they are expected to yield 2350,000 in excess of working expenses, and available towards paying the interest on the borrowed capital, out of which they have been constructed. Judging from the returns of last quarter, we do not expect them to exceed the estimate, and that will leave a loss of about a quarter of a million to be undergood. of about a quarter of a million to be made good out of the general public purse. Our postal and telegraph services, including interest on borrowed capital, also promise a loss of advocated by any honest or enlightened man. borrowed capital, also promise a loss of advocated by any honest or enignment man. £150,000 for the year, another contrast to the state of things in the United Kingdon, where the density of population enables the Courtibute towards the settlement of a difficult problem. Nor is the cause of social Government to earry letters and telegrams reform materially assisted by disserts. for the people at low rates and still make an annual profit of millions on the two services. Finally the cost of primary, secondary, and higher education for the present year is estimated at £415,418, for which the only, but it is believed, all sufficient return will be, the increased intelligence and progress of the people. Add together the items just enumerated, and we get a net annual charge of £1,350,000 to the revenue on account of roads and bridges, railways, letters and telegrams, and public education, which is more than the entire gross taxation of the year as at present sanctioned by Parliament. There will then remain the entire cost of what are usually termed the ordinary functions of Governer and telegrams and the ordinary functions of Governer and times of matter of severage is not likely to commend itself to the remain the entire cost of what are usually rience of Melbourne in the matter of severemed the ordinary functions of Government, such as the administration of justice, the cost of the police and prisons, the defence of the country from invasion, public charity, pensions, general public works, the balance of interest on account of them, and the whole denestrants. the whole departmental expenditure to be only one possible under the circumstances. It is gratifying to find from the report we taxation have been swallowed up for the published the other day that the refuse of purposes first named. It is conceded at once that the cost of for the purpose of fertilizing a few of the managing the public estate ought to be a charge upon its proceeds, and that some portion of those proceeds may be properly applied towards meeting the cost of opening up railway and other communication. That Melbourne would put up with their system of drainage if they possess advantages that we do for carrying out the water system. The dry-earth system may be used advantage under certain conditions. It has been tried with some success in small populations and occasionally in large cities, or in cities that offer few facilities for underever from becoming law. As if inspired by we are left with our bloated expenditure ground drainage. But what is good for a that foreboding, he told the Assembly in his and no corresponding income from permanent city built on a flat surface may not be good and no corresponding income from permanent city built on a flat surface may not be good for a sources. But the people are well enough able to bear the cost of their own government, and is best for an inland town may not be best if it be still shought a sill sho if it be still thought desirable to carry passen-gers and produce, letters and telegrams, at one-third less than cost price, and to make our present system of sewerage were, that roads and bridges out of general instead of it involves a waste of material that should local revenue, the people must pay for these be applied to the cultivation of the soil; and advantages in some other way. Their present that it would create a source of pestilance on rate of taxation scarcely exceeds 30s. 6d. the bays and inlets in the locality to which rate of taxation scarcely exceeds 30s. 6d. the bays and inlets in the locality to which per head per annum, even including the little municipal taxation that exists. The whole of that falls upon the consumers of dutiable goods, and even then it is a smaller rate than consumers in the United Kingdom are paying by means of Customs and excise duties. Compared with the prevailing rates of wasses it might be carried off to Hen. Buddled's Dairy is exceeded by the city in the manner suggested, or that if the prevailing rates of wages it might be doubled, and still leave consumers in New back upon the shores and inless South Wales relatively less burdened than the increase yet provided for is the £112,000 additional duty from spirits and wines, and the proper proportion of that has not been realized for the first quarter of the year. Under these circumstances it is almost inevitable that the Government must bring down a supplementary budget if they wish to avoid a heavy deficit at the close of the year. The stamp duties as embodied in the bill which still hangs in suspense, are no longer adequate to the wants of the Treasury, for if they are sanctioned they will probably yield not more than £100,000 for the current year, leaving a quarter of a million sterling still to During the last few weeks we have pubset of the currents to which the sewage is to affects tidal rivers rather than marine ou falls; but if the site for such outfalls be judiciously selected, and proper means be taken in the town which drains to the outfall for the be qualified by some explanations. MINING APPAIRS AT NEWCASTLE.

[BY TRINGBAPH.]

NEWCASTLE THURMAY.

NEWCASTLE, TRUBEDAY.

A ballot has been taken, amongst the miners of the Associated Collieries, on the question of accepting or refusing the terms offered by the Associated Masters, with the result that a majority against accepting the terms was recorded at each of the five Associated Collieries—namely: Ferndale, 51 against; Walleand, 188; Co-operative, 81; Hamilton, 82; Minmi, 9: total, 311 against. The decision thus arrived at practically means that the men have resolved to strike for more favourable terms than those offered; but, as miners of the Non-associated Collieries were expressly prohibited from voting, the above result cannot be taken as fully indicating the feeling of the entire district. There are strong grounds for believing it is intended that the non-associated interest should work on, notwithstanding the decision arrived at by the associated miners. There are 1500 associated miners and 1000 non-associated in the district.

A special delegate meeting has been called for Saturday next, when business of great importance to the district will be brought forward for discussion. It is understood that a proposition will be submitted that, with the object of averting a strike, the miners will be saked to go to work on the terms offered by the masters, but without uninding themsaless to any term.

THE PESTILENCE THAT WALKETH IN DARKNESS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD. Sir.—I have resided in Birmingham for many years, and only left there in May, 1879; and I read in a letter published in your valuable paper on the 14th what I did not know before, respecting a huge furnace in the middle of Birmingham for the disposal of all the sewage matter collected in the pans.

I am afraid our friend is a little mixed up. Allow me through your paper to put the matter right for your numerous readers.

I am afraid our friend is a little mixed up. Allow me through your paper to put the matter right for your numerous readers.

Ist. The Act of Parliament referred to by Mr. Edwards idd not empower the Corporation of Birmingham to pull down all outhouse and cleests, but only those that evere not properly drained of the liquid portion of their contents.

Ind. The tub referred to, instead of contains ashes and such refuse only that will rot; the forbidder refuse is kroken pots, glass, old instead, of contains ashes and such refuse only that will rot; the forbidder refuse is kroken pots, glass, old instead, of contains ashes and such refuse only that will rot; the forbidder refuse is kroken pots, glass, old instead, of carticles in the tubs, what is valuable they collect as their parquisite and sell, the remainder is refused.

If the pans are put in cart as described, but instead of taking them to the supposed huge furnace they are taken to depots sinate in different parts of the town on cansiforates, where the Corporation have boats waiting to receive the contents, and thay are taken away on the contages, where the Corporation spent a large sum to construct an arrigon the canal, also, a basin, and a number of shoots, to facilitate the loading of the boats. I also know how quickly houses in the immediate locality were vacated on account of the unpleasant effluxia.

Mr. Edwards seems to imply that the van is the only system in vogue is Birmingham. There is a large sower age system in full swing, and a very extensive sowerage farm is irrigated with the unstread right in the system in the same of the stream of the same of the same of the kerbing and guttering on east side of Pittastret, between Bridges and the irrighte of Mr. Manning's land, between Victoria-street and Darinestreet, and the report of the Pinance Committee, recommending the repair or renewal of the kerbing and guttering on east side of Pittastret, between Bridges and the regain of the best of the canals, which would not have been the capse if the huge fu

SYDNEY MUNICIPAL COUNCIL.

The fortnightly meeting of the Sydney Municipa Council took place yesterday, in the Town Hall, when his Worship the Mayor occupied the chair, and there was a large attendance of aldermen.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

CATLE SALE YARD DEBENTURES.

The MAYOR reported that the whole of these had been taken up at 102, the minimum price fixed.

PRITITIONS.

Petitions were presented by Alderman Lees in favour of the forming of Pitt-street being proceeded with in short sections only, on account of the present arrangements scriously affecting trade; by Alderman Davies, for the removal of obstructions in Campbell-street; by Alderman Palmer for lamps in Wynyard-square and Market-street; and by Alderman Carter for lamps near the entrance to Christchurch, and at the corner of Bedford and Belvoir-streets.

Alderman Davies said that he had received a letter from Mr. A. H. M'Culloch, M. I. A., to the effect that he was one of the owners of land adjoining the Post Office, and that, if the Government would build the Post Office ten feet back from the present alignment, he believed he could arrange to have the alignment put back the same distance for a length of 155 feet.

have the alignment put back the same distance for a length of 150 feet.

This offer was considered of so important a character that it was resolved to appoint a deputation at once to wait on the Colonial Severcary, to ascertain if the alignment of the Post Office could be put back.

The MAYOR, in reply to Alderman Hardle, said that no reply had been received from the Colonial Secretary with reference to request of a deputation from the Council who had asked for power by bill to borrow £60,000, for completing the Town Hall.

The MAYOR in reply to Alderman Hordern, who asked
